

by:NOLAN Gilreath

The Red Coated Man

Once upon a time there was a man who lived on top of a hill in a mansion.

He was a time travler with lots of gadgets. He lived up there for years while traveling in time. One day he noticed something odd there was a disturbance in the air it was not pretty, monsters and dragons. He went to his office and was planning a trip in time to see what the promblem was. As he went threw time he carried his cane that was made for getting threw time. Mr Red was a smart man indeed he was he knew a lot about time, had to usually explore the unknown to find things out. As he was traveling, he needed to find out why the monsters and dragons were ripping threw he was engaged to fight a few monsters on the way to Zello town. Mr Red has a lot of combat skills and is a time traveler and warrior. Mr Red had a few things to do before he sets out. He gathered his things and headed out. As time went by there was a few things he noticed that the town he was in was in shambles, there he encountered a diamond dragon, there he had to defeat it to proceed. Mr Red also had to be careful of its flame breath which was deadly. He then defeted the dragon and kept looking for surviors in the town. As he was walking there he noticed something odd there was one house that was not wrecked up like the other ones, he thought to himself thats odd he walked in and got wrapped in time again, now he was in a jungle there he walked and found a building there as he explored it he found what the promblem was a time building with another time machine that was still running. As he tried to turn it off Mr Blue his rival appeared and a epic battle was about to begin, the battle rages on as Mr Red was at his last breath he finished the battle with one swift blow. He finally found the promblem and went back to his time and everything was back to normal.

He lived in peace finally. Mr Red was now happy and can finally contiue his studies.